'We act when we see a need' is the Geller family philosophy. When he became a Hawken school parent, Hawken alum Dan Geller saw a need to enhance students' sense of commitment to community and so he and his family acted. First they created and funded programs that engaged students in philanthropy and community service. Then Dan and his parents Albert and Norma	timing	Visuals Use visuals from existing Community Rescuer video honoring the Gellers.
Geller planted the Hawken Eco-Garden to enhance students' respect for nature and the earth. Finally, through his business, Geller has helped countless groups and individuals and provided trucks, drivers and drop-off locations for Haiti Earthquake relief, extending their caring from Cleveland to the world.
